Invest in a
Community Treasure

Built in 1903 as a Vaudeville House, the “Colonial Opera House” brought professional shows and live entertainment to Phoenixville for the first time. Since then, the Colonial Theatre has played a significant role in the lives of many people in our community. In 1996 a group of concerned citizens decided it was time to forever protect the legacy of the Colonial Theatre for future generations, so they formed a nonprofit corporation and purchased the theatre.

Thanks to the generosity of many since that time the renovation process continues. The Association for The Colonial Theatre (ACT) is committed to the full restoration of this “gem” as a cultural arts center.

The Colonial is open every day, offering a variety of art and independent films, classics, children’s programs, concerts and special events.

After years of work, a pipe organ is back in the Colonial. The Wurlitzer is a welcome addition and the Theatre Organ Society of the Delaware Valley and ACT plan many wonderful events. The renovated third floor space offers opportunities for film discussions, speaker series and other community programs.

You can support this important asset in our community by becoming a member. Your contribution to this membership drive will help to sustain the Colonial in its day to day operations while at the same time boost the resurgence of downtown Phoenixville.

Open up to see the great benefits for members. Remember, membership at the Colonial makes a great gift also!
